

ROBINS REGAINS HIS MEMORY AND RECOGNIZES WIFE

Nephew Claims Memory of All His Past Life Has Returned

BUT MYSTERY REMAINS

Prohibition Worker Not Approached About Details of Wanderings

By Joseph K. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 22.—(INS)—The man who for nine weeks lived happily as a gold prospector high up in the tiny Appalachian Mountain village of Whittier, N. C., today had become his former self, Colonel Raymond Robins, crusader in the cause of prohibition and reform.

Along with the happiness he claimed was his during the weeks he roamed the mountains with laughing healthy young boys and girls went the warmth of a shaggy beard and the comfort of a pair of overalls.

Both were discarded shortly after the dramatic scene in the Appalachian Hall mental sanitarium here yesterday afternoon when he looked into the twitching face of the nervous little woman who held his hand and exclaimed "Margaret!" in recognition of her as the wife that had shared his life for twenty-seven years.

Although his nephew, John Dreier, claims the memory of all his past life has now returned, mystery still shrouds the details of what happened when he suddenly disappeared two and a half months ago while en route to keep an appointment with President Hoover.

"We have not yet spoken to him about details of his disappearance," Dreier said.

It appeared however, that he came to this part of the country almost immediately after his disappearance in New York on the night of September 3rd.

A Mrs. W. E. Bryson, boarding house keeper in the village of Balsam, about 35 miles from here on the way to Whittier, claims he spent the nights of September fifth and sixth at her house.

Whether Robins remembers anything of his life in the mountains, especially his alleged offer to send away to college the pretty nineteen-year-old daughter of the family with whom he boarded, also remained a mystery today.

Dreier said the events which occurred since his disappearance have not been related to him and, unless he voluntarily recalls them, will not be until he has completely recovered from the strain of the past few days.

The dramatic manner in which Robins regained his memory while clasping the hand of his wife in the presence of Dr. Mark A. Griffin, psychiatrist, who has been attending him, amazed the natives of this North Carolina town.

Dr. Griffin, however, said the manner in which he regained his memory was characteristic of such cases.

In an exclusive statement to International News Service, Dr. Griffin, who was the only witness of the recognition scene, added:

"From a medical standpoint, there was nothing unusual in the way in which Colonel Robins' condition ended. In functional nervous diseases, nothing is impossible."

Mrs. Robins beamed with happiness after she emerged from the meeting with her husband.

"Isn't it wonderful news," she exclaimed. "I'm so glad."

BITUMINOUS COAL INDUSTRY IMPROVES

Coal Company Head Believes Sales Tax is Inevitable

BETTER THAN BEER TAX

By James L. Kilgallen
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1932, by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(INS)—"An improvement, slight but gratifying, has taken place in the bituminous coal industry since October 1."

So declared William S. Bennett, vice-president of the Continental Coal Company of West Virginia, in an exclusive interview today. Bennett, who, incidentally, was for eight years a congressman from New York, said that a few mines in the Pittsburgh district have been re-opened and that there has been an increase in the hours of employment in West Virginia.

Speaking of business generally, he thought it was "very gratifying" that economic leaders—regardless of politics—are willing to support any promising plan of the administration looking toward economic recovery.

He said Federal taxation has reached the saturation point and declared it is the duty of the American people "to utilize every effort toward the reduction of governmental expenditures."

"The country would derive vastly more revenue from a sales tax than from a beer tax," said Bennett, in response to a question. "I believe a manufacturers' one-point sales tax is inevitable if there is a national deficit on June 30, 1933."

"I don't favor any new taxes at all and I favor the manufacturers' sales tax only as a substitute for existing taxes. A reasonable manufacturers' sales tax would, in my opinion, bring in at least four times as much revenue as any tax on all alcoholic liquors combined."

Bennett declared that the anticipated revenue from a beer tax has been "greatly exaggerated." He said the largest revenue the country ever obtained in one year from intoxicating liquor of all kinds was $245,000,000.

"Liquor taxes are not in the same class with the manufacturers' sales tax, which practically all of the people will pay and which is adjustable to the needs of the government," he said.

Bennett blamed business and civic leaders to a large extent for the readiness with which Congress in the past twenty years, has spent the public's money. He said that in the eight years he was in Congress he received an average of 1,000 letters a year from business and civic leaders urging him to vote for appropriations for special projects such as public buildings, rivers and harbors improvements, good roads and other Federal enterprises.

DETOUR ESTABLISHED ON PIKE AT TULLYTOWN

Wooden Span Over Railroad at Wheatheaf Declared to Be Unsafe

GUARDS ARE POSTED

The Bristol Pike between Tullytown and Morrisville was closed yesterday on orders of the Pennsylvania Highway Department and will remain closed to through traffic for at least two months.

The reason for this is that the old wooden bridge, near Wheatheaf, which carries the pike across the tracks of the New York Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad has to be torn down and something substituted in its place. The old bridge has been declared unsafe and for some time the Pennsylvania Railroad has had a guard stationed there to warn motorists of its unsafe condition, especially for loads over six tons.

A detour utilizing the road from Tullytown, through the King Farms property and so into Morrisville has been marked by the highway department.

Both railroad and highway officials are as yet undecided as how to best replace the condemned structure. A new reinforced concrete viaduct has been considered but nothing definite has been agreed upon by the representatives of the railroad or of the State.

Co. W. C. T. U. Workers Have Executive Meeting

Mid-year executive meeting of Bucks County W. C. T. U. occurred at Newtown Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lucy A. Harper.

After singing "A Charge to Keep I Have," Miss Emily Packer, Newtown, conducted the devotional period, giving a most instructive and inspiring message on the unseen spiritual forces.

In spite of the exceedingly inclement weather, 15 unions were represented with an attendance of 33 presidents and directors.

Mrs. Harper announced that December 5th and January 5th have been designated as days of prayer. On January 16th there will be a Prohibition Day luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford. Bucks County is hoping to be well represented.

After partaking of a very delicious lunch, a social hour was enjoyed. At 1:45 the president called the meeting to order. Mrs. Hannah Hartman, Fallsington, offered prayer. The business of the afternoon was then taken up. Reports were given by directors of all departments.

YARDLEY COUPLE LOSE IN SUITS AGAINST P. R. R.

Court Directs Verdicts in Action Following Wheat-

PAIR SOUGHT $26,000

Defense Says Craft Was at Fault; Woman Loses
Claim

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 22.—A verdict was returned late yesterday against Mrs. Helen Hopkins, Yardley, who sought $25,000 on the ground that she "will remain a helpless invalid for the rest of her life," and William Craft, also of Yardley, who sought $1,000 because of the demolition of his automobile.

The verdict was given at the direction of Judge Oliphant who instructed the jury in Mercer Circuit Court.

The accident occurred at Wheat-sheaf Crossing of the P. R. R., in Bucks County.

Judge Oliphant ordered the directed verdict at the close of testimony. To prove its claim that Craft was guilty of contributory negligence by stalling his automobile on the right of way, Counselor W. Holt Apgar called Peter L. Grevson, engineer on the train involved in the crash; John M. Grabill, a fireman; Louis E. Havens, a brakeman; Louis Moran, a trainman, and Thomas B. Tanner, a railroad special officer. Grevson stated that he blew two long and two short blasts of the whistle as the locomotive approached the crossing and his testimony was corroborated by the other witnesses. Tanner and Grabill testified that although they returned to the crossing not more than six or eight minutes after the crash there was no sign of (Continued on Page 4)

UP TO PHYSICIANS

Phila., Nov. 22.—The baseball outlook of Charles Gilbert, star shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, rested in the deft hands of physicians at Hahnemann Hospital.

Whether or not the Ambler youth ever again will be able to cavort around the infield depends upon the success of a forthcoming operation. Brought here late yesterday suffering from a shattered left leg, the result of a gunning accident, young Gilbert's condition was found to be more serious than it was first thought. An operation must take place but this will be deferred, attendants said, three or four days, until it is known the wound is septic. Dr. A. B. Webster said to day the "shot" came into the leg, smashed the fibula bone and cut some nerves and blood vessels.

"We will try to graft some nerves in," Dr. Webster added. "It is not just a question of saving the foot, which we believe we can do, but a 'dead' foot is not much good to a ball player."

BASKETBALL LEAGUE GETS UNDER WAY HERE

Y. M. A. Victors Over The Third Ward
Team

ACES DEFEAT KNIGHTS

The Italian Mutual Aid Hall was jammed to capacity last night as the opening games of the Bristol Basketball League got under way. The victors for the first night were the Y. M. A. and the Bristol Aces. The Y. M. A. defeated Third Ward, 34-27, and the Aces downed the Knights of Columbus 46-25.

"Dave" Landreth, president of the Bristol Twilight League, gave a short address and then officially opened the eight-team circuit by tossing the first ball which went to Pegley, pivot man of the Y. M. A. team.

The Men's Association-Third Ward game was closely fought throughout and featured a rally staged by the Pikers in the last three minutes of play. At half-time the Y's held a 14-9 lead, but the Warders pulled up and at the end of the third quarter, the count was 16-15 in the Y. M. A.'s favor.

At the beginning of the last session, Manager Smoyer's boys went on a scoring spree and ran their total to thirty-four, while the Pikers had to be content with a lone field goal, bringing their total to 17. Another field goal was added and then came the last-ditch rally which brought the downtown boys' total to 27 and brought an end to the closely-fought struggle between the two clubs.

There was very little to the Knights (Continued on Page 4)

Thirty people will participate in the musical comedy "The Gypsy Troubadour," to be given by the choir of First Baptist Church Thursday evening, December 1st, in the lecture room, at 8:15 p. m., under direction of Miss Winifred Y. Tracy.

The scene takes place in a gypsy camp, where Todor, the chief of the tribe of Haaren, is awaiting the return of his son, Nikoli, who has been away at college. Nikoli returns engaged to Clare Clayton, the daughter of a wealthy banker, much to the dismay of his father, who had planned for Nikoli to marry Rosita, his gypsy sweetheart and succeed as ruler of the tribe.

The plot deepens when Varlo, a treacherous schemer, plots to have Nikoli expelled from the tribe in disgrace by stealing a necklace of Clare's and contrives to shift the blame of the theft upon Nikoli.

The whole plot is overheard and witnessed by Tom Gordon, Nikoli's college friend, who secretly reveals it to Marko, the witty fortune teller, and the two counterplot together to save Nikoli.

The cast: Todor, ruler of the gypsy tribe of Haaren, Leslie Moss; Varlo, his wife, Mrs. J. Talbot; Varlo, Todor's nephew, a schemer, Clarence Smith; Elena, a former sweetheart of Varlo, Vera Donald; Marko, the tribe's chief boaster, William Marshall; Janina, a gypsy girl devoted to Marko, Roberta Pearson; Nikoli, son of Todor and Maria, a poet, Jackson Bauer; Rosita, Nikoli's gypsy sweetheart, Winifred Tracy; Tom Gordon, Nikoli's college friend, Carl Foell; Mrs. Jean Jerrold, a designing widow, Miss Laura Ellis; Mary Matthews, a terrible talker, Miss Louise Stuart; Henry Clayton, a business man, Jackson Bauer, Sr.; Clare Clayton, Clayton's daughter and Nikoli's innamorata, Mildred Dyer.

BANKS WILL PAY $552,700 OUT IN X'MAS CLUB CHECKS

20 Banks in County to Pay
Out a Total of $521,200

$31,500 FROM OUTSIDE

Impetus Expected in Revival of Business in Area

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 22.—In spite of the fact there is a decrease of $176,300 in Christmas Club funds in Bucks county this year compared with 1931, the grand total of $521,200 that will be distributed by twenty Bucks county banks in addition to $31,500 more that will come to Bucks countians from banks outside of the county, the grand total of $552,700 is considered by bankers to be very good considering business conditions.

An optimistic expression is found in the reports from every section of Bucks county that the distribution of over a half million dollars to approximately 12,600 persons during the next ten days, will add a terrific impetus to a revived urge for constructive and useful purchases on the part of families that have discarded a paralyzing fear that the worst is yet to come.

Although all but one Bucks county bank showed a decrease this year there are plenty of reasons for club members to feel gratified that they will be able to get their checks this year and that the purchasing power of the dollar is considerable greater than it was a year ago.

The Quakertown National Bank, with $25,000 in Christmas funds, is the only bank that did not show a decrease, the amount last year being approximately the same.

The Merchants' National Bank of Quakertown leads the county this year with a total of $59,000 to be distributed among 1150 members. Added to this amount in Quakertown is $25,000 to be given out by the Quakertown National and $13,000 by the Quakertown Trust Company, which makes the total in that borough for distribution $97,000, the largest of any community in Bucks county.

Bristol's two banks will distribute a total of $82,700 among approximately 2900 club members compared to $132,000 a year ago.

Two Doylestown banks will send out checks on December 1 that will total $78,000, including $42,000 from the Doylestown National Bank and $36,000 from the Doylestown Trust Company. The approximate number of subscribers in Doylestown is 1575. A year ago three Doylestown banks distributed a total of $102,000 so that the decrease in the County Seat this year amounts to $24,000.

Two Perkasie banks will distribute $63,000 including $35,000 from the Perkasie Trust Company and $28,000 from the Perkasie National Bank, a decrease for the two banks of $25,000 in one year.

A total of $35,000 will be sent out in checks to the club members in two Newtown banks, including $25,000 from the Newtown National Bank and $10,000 from the Newtown Title and Trust Company, a decrease in the two banks of $6,000 in a year.

The Peoples National Bank of Langhorne, fell behind but $2,000 in the year, the total being about $36,000 to $40 club members.

Chalfont National Bank has a total this year of about $15,500 to send out in checks, compared to $17,000 a year ago. The Dublin National Bank will distribute $14,000 next week compared to $17,000 a year ago.

In Morrisville, the trust company of that borough will give away $20,000 to about 450 members compared to $30,000 a year ago. The Yardley National Bank showed a decrease of only $2,000, the total for distribution this year being about $8,000 to 300 members. The Solebury National Bank of New Hope will send out checks to about 250 members that will total $8,000, a decrease of $2500 in a year.

The Hathor National Bank is the only bank in the district to show an increase this year, and that is said to be due to the failure of a Willow Grove bank more than a year ago. Hathor National will send out a total of $34,000 compared to $32,000 a year ago, and it is estimated that Bucks county residents will get about $3,000 of that amount.

The Telford National Bank, one of the pioneer institutions to start the Christmas savings fund in Montgomery county, will distribute $40,000 this year compared to $50,000 last year. Of the total amount this year, Bucks county club members will get about $15,000.

Bucks county residents will also receive checks from the Peoples National Bank of Souderton, Hatfield National Bank, and the Union National Bank of Souderton.

The First National Bank of Lansdale will distribute $130,000 this year to approximately 1500 subscribers, compared to $160,000 a year ago, the other Lansdale bank, the Lansdale Title and Trust Company has about $22,000 to distribute this year, making a total in that town of $152,000 or a decrease in a year of $13,000.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Christmas is not too far away to begin planning for it. Many of the churches have already begun to lay plans for the proper observance of Christ's natal day. There is so much about Christmas coming up, with thoughts of it that, if one were to write, he easily could cover many pages and scarcely know it—and yet, half of this sweetest story would remain untold.

What a happy thing it would be this year to pick out somebody you know who ordinarily will not have a happy Christmas—somebody, whose life is not all "roses and sunshine"; somebody, whose story has been written with the pen rust of disappointment and despairing difficulties; somebody, whose soul has been pinched and his heart choked by the circumstances of fate, over which he or she had no control, but who remains firm in the conviction that there still is a Santa Claus, even though Santa disappeared out of his or her life in childhood forever.

Think a little and you will see in your mind this man or woman, or mayhap a child. On every side they will be found. If you knew the inside story of that man or that woman you do not like because of "something or other," perhaps if you would draw a little closer and raise the curtain of their lives, you would stand back in amazement, and then wonder why you had disliked them without knowing why. Perhaps—but, why go on?

Let us begin now to think of some one to make happy this Christmas—some one who is undoubtedly overlooked in the mad, glad rush. Perhaps this some one may be rich or well-to-do financially; it does not matter, whether rich or poor, make it a point this year to remember some of those unfortunate, unhappy victims, around whose lives fate seems to have hung a pall.

FOOTBALL

Critics of modern college football picture it as an organized and commercialized spectacle. They even complain that the cheering sections are organized and lack that desired amateurish spontaneity. Few will deny that college football today is a "big business," with some teams collecting as much as $300,000 in gate receipts in one short season and with corps of high-salaried coaches and trainers and large squads of subsidized players, but after all the commercialism found in football is something different from that associated with professional baseball. It may be traditions, it may be the players and it may be a difference in those who fill the gridiron stands and those who fill the baseball bleachers, but compared with baseball the sport of football is decidedly unprofessional and uncommercialized.

The football player who excels under its present stage of development must have physical endurance and strength and mental alertness. Both are splendid qualities for the business of making a living out of sport. No better evidence that football is played to the king's taste today could be found than the fact that never was the sport as popular as now, never was it better played and never did it so strongly compete with baseball for the coveted title of the Great American Game.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LXVII.
WHELP he went below to settle with the manager, she packed a bag, and dressed. The overdue rent took more than half of his bank balance at the bank.
"We'll have to find a cheaper place soon," he thought gloomily as he lay up stairs. "We won't be able to live here on that miserable salary. Unless I can borrow a little and get in on something good."
"You're going to marry a damn poor man," he told Crystal, moodily a few minutes later, looking at her gold fitted dressing case, and the blue fox fur dangling carelessly over her arm.
"Darling!" she murmured. "Do you suppose I care? We'll live in a cottage, and I'll cook you hamburger steak and carrots every night for dinner."
"It won't be quit, that bad," he said, laughing. He was thinking of a few dollars flat out near the Golf Links. "Anything would be heaven to an angel like Crystal."
"Well, I hoped it wouldn't—for your sake!" She laughed back. She was thinking of the hotel down town, nothing de luxe, until he got on his feet, of course.
So they went down the stairs, their arms entwined. Each wrapped in thought.
In the mail box she saw the white of a letter through the black ironwork grill.
"Now that I'm almost over my husband I'll have to see all your mail!"
She smiled and tucked it into her purse. "In due you will, darling—it's only a jiffy!"
It was from Jideon Cocklebury, she had had time to see that. Now what did he want? Maybe his wife had gone away again. He never wrote about trivial things. Maybe she had better read it before she got in too deep with Ralph. No use in losing your head, and bundling things, when with a little management you could take care of everything.
"Dear, will you're putting the bags in the car. I'm going to run back upstairs for just one minute. I've forgotten my—" But she never finished the sentence. As her glance shifted un-expectedly about, she fell on an amazingly familiar figure toiling up the hill from the street car stop. Her mother! Adelina, father and mother, a too small green hat atop her mop of brassy hair. Adelina riding in the street cars, lugging a suitcase and a paper bag. Adelina who pulled a taxi to ride two hundred yards unless she was flat, dead broke.
In a moment the stout, puffing figure, for the moment engrossed with slapping bundles and fallen arches, would raise her head and see—"What did you forget, dear?" "Nothing!" Crystal cried breathlessly. "Nothing! Oh, do hurry Ralph, I'm so damned nervous!" She scrambled into the car. She checked her purse with Cocklebury's letter within it, more tightly in her hot hands. "Whew! What a close call!"
And the unconscious, triumphant and not quite happy bridegroom to be, drove on. He was noting she wouldn't blame him too much for holding back some of the facts about his private affairs. He was a little nervous about Daphne too. Left holding the sack. It wasn't quite the thing to do—but hell! Nobody's perfect! He decided. He put her into high and the car swooped smoothly, noisily down the hill.
"But I'm her mother!" Miss Garrowy said to herself. "I was coming, because she wasn't expectin' me. I'm thinking of" making my home with her for a while. Yes, there's nothing like your own flesh and blood. I always say a girl has no friend like her mother. I'll just go right in and make myself at home. Maybe I'll do a little cleaning up while she's gone and get rid of some of the old pictures she's got in there.

"I brought a few little things of my own in the trunk. I'll make it more homelike. I'm a great hand for having a place homelike. If you could just send down for my trunk, here's the check and put it on Crystal's bill. Thank you. I'm sure you'll find me a real quiet tenant, thanks ever so much!"
Adelina felt happier than she had for months when she got into a bungalow, arched and a pair of crocheted slippers, and began to "pick up" a bit in Crystal's cluttered apartment.
"She'll be glad to see Mama," she thought contentedly. "And that was a real nice-looking man in the manager's office. He looked like a widower to me. You can see he'd be one to appreciate a real woman."
Crystal was right, there are better chances in the city. I'll show that upstart, second-rate realtor—reflector! Bah!—just how much he disappointed me. . . . as if I'm the kind to live in a back town like San Jose. Well, he'll see. There's as good fish in the sea as was ever caught. . . . I'll have to get my hair touched up a bit. I wonder where Crystal has her charge accounts?
And Crystal stood on toward her honeymoon, with her "rich" husband by her side.
Old Mr. Greely chuckled when he heard what Ralph had done. "Worse n' fail," he said.
The chuckling brought on a coughing fit that worried Daphne, but not the old man. "It was worth it," he wheezed between paroxysms. "Funniest thing I ever heard!"
The girls in the office thought it was funny, too. "Did you ever?" Mrs. Hobbs, the boldest one, sighed. "Well, it just goes to show, honey, that you can't trust a man. I sure thought he was crazy about you. Only the last time he came in I said to Miss Yardley, 'I wonder who'll get Miss Haines' job, when she and Mr. McKevitt get married?'—and here you are, high and dry!"
Yes, there she was—high and dry—and not even the blessed relief of being free again could quite ease the sting of that. It wasn't that she still wanted Ralph. She wondered if she had ever really loved him. . . . wasn't it just being in love with love instead?
Or had he killed her love, so slowly, so quietly, in such trivial little ways, that she didn't even know when it died? Finding his guilt didn't do it. . . . it was gone long before that. . . . She even found it in her heart to pity Crystal. "Crystal won't ever be happy with Ralph when she can't have all the things she wants, and has been used to. . . . and what will he do if he finds out about that artist, and all those men?"
"And suppose her mother comes back, and wants to live with them. . . . It was foolish worrying about them, but she couldn't get it off her mind."
She was lonely, too. Conscious of the pitying glances Miss Viola throw after her, and the whisperings of Mrs. Spellman, and Mrs. Halliday.
"As I told Spellman, if I told him once I told him fifty times. 'A working girl is a fool if she thinks a society man is going to marry her,' I said. I could see from the first—"
"Sure. Those kind don't respect a girl without a chaperon and all. Believe me, when she went riding

RISING SUN ELEVEN IS BLANKED BY CROYDON

CROYDON, Nov. 22.—Playing a last-battle before the traditional Thanksgiving Day gridiron tilt with Bristol A. A., the Croydon eleven blanked the heavy Rising Sun Bulldogs for their fourth goose egg score this season. The game took place at Eddington field; the same grounds that will see action in the turkey tilt.

Many sensational plays brought the fans to their feet with wild cheers but the teams were evenly matched, even though Croydon was outwitted 20 pounds to the man. Both teams had the ball in dangerous territory at various stages of the fray but neither could make the necessary yardage to count up the markers.

In the third quarter things looked rosy for the Croydonites when Stet Crossley broke away from his own ten yard line and raced to his own forty-yard marker. One more man and he would have been away for a touchdown—but that man was there and did his duty.

Buck Lewis and Marv Collins came through on the defensive play and broke up the opposition's chances for any scores. Croydon line held tight in the tense moments with every man doing his share of the work. Bill Roger with his 245 pounds of weight was a great asset in defense and in opening up the line on offense.

It was reported that the team which Croydon held to a tie on Sunday were victors over St. Ann's of Bristol in the earlier part of the season.

This comparison will give the local fans some idea of what might be expected in the way of football this Thursday.

Officials of the Croydon A. C. predict a record crowd for Eddington field with plenty of rooters for both sides. Coach Abe Stiles has called a special practice session for Tuesday evening. Both teams are out to win since the championship of Bucks County may be at stake. It is expected that if Croydon is the victor on Thursday they will take on the Doylestown eleven to decide the supremacy of the county gridiron.

Next Sunday Croydon will meet a fast team from Front and Girard streets in Philadelphia playing under the title of Northeast Comets. The fray will take place at the same field.

The line-up:

Croydon A. C.	R. S. Bulldogs

HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD HOLDS LAST SCRIMMAGE

(By Oscar Corn)
In preparation for the game on Thanksgiving day with Morrisville, the high school squad had their last scrimmage of the year. The first team scrimmaged fairly good. They scored often and ran their plays very smoothly. Numerous passes were completed, but the punting was ragged.

The Alumni game has been cancelled and will not be played. All those who have tickets can get their money refunded from the person from whom they bought them.

A big pre-game sale of tickets for the Thanksgiving Day game is now going on. Buy now and avoid the last minute rush!

and Aces game. Once the former High School stars began their shooting, the Caseys weren't in the game. They sank in shot after shot and passed with efficiency. Their speedy floor-work was too much for the Knights. Scoring honors for the night went to Dick Brown, of Third Ward; Reds Bailey, of the Y. M. A.; "Angie" McClafferty and Charlie Dugan, of the Caseys, and Ray Dorsey of the Aces.

The next game of the league will be played on Friday night when the Hibernians meet the Odd Fellows and the Paterson Parchment Paper Company plays the Bristol Hawks.

EUROPE WATCHES CONFERENCE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—Anxious eyes of Europe were turned today to an upstairs chamber of the White House where this afternoon President Hoover will hold his highly publicized conference with President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt over international debts, disarmament and world economics.

Little in the way of aid for the debtor nations now asking postponement of payments due December 15 was expected coming from the meeting between the executive and the man who will succeed him. Congress is standing 100 per cent against further extension of the moratorium and will not countenance any form of revision so there is little Messrs. Hoover and Roosevelt can do even should they be so inclined. President Hoover probably will propose to Governor Roosevelt that the war debt funding commission should be revised to inquire into the question of the debts. The President made this proposal to Congress a year ago and it was ignored. If he makes it again next month it undoubtedly will receive the same treatment. But whatever suggestions Mr. Hoover makes to the President-elect, and he is reported to have very definite ideas on the subject, the question of Mr. Roosevelt's public support of these suggestions is entirely different.

This afternoon's conference will be held in the historic Lincoln Study. At President Hoover's elbow will be Secretary of the Treasury Mills. Giving Governor Roosevelt aid will be Professor Raymond Moley of Columbia, a prominent member of the "brain trust" during the campaign. No stenographer will be present, and the meeting, in accordance with Mr. Roosevelt's wishes, will be "personal and informal."

WASHINGTON.—The holy land is the only locality on the earth that has escaped the depression, according to Paul Himmelfarb, lecturer, who has just returned from a tour through Palestine and other countries of the East. Inhabitants of the holy land are unaware a depression existed, he declared.

Mrs. Warren Randall presided at the meeting.

Christmas Work Planned By Langhorne Auxiliary

LANGHORNE, Nov. 22.—At the November session of American Legion Auxiliary, Jesse W. Soby Post, here, last evening, it was announced that proceeds of the recent play, "Adam's Apple," would approximate $100. Miss Rita Keating headed the committee in charge, and directed the production.

Donation of five pairs of children's hosiery was received from a friend of the auxiliary, these to be distributed later to children in need.

Arrangements were made to purchase five pairs of hose to be filled with small gifts for invalid veterans at Coatesville Hospital, for the Christmas season; as well as Christmas gifts for children of two deceased veterans. Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell was named to take charge of this work.

An invitation was received by the auxiliary to attend a joint meeting of the post and auxiliary Friday, evening at the Memorial House. A splendid program is being outlined to follow the business. A prize will likewise be awarded to the organization having the largest attendance, i. e., post or auxiliary. A number of members plan to attend the December Bi-County Council meeting in Philadelphia, December 8th.

Mrs. Warren Randall presided at the meeting.

Yardley Couple Lose In Suits Against P. R. R.

It was further brought out in the questioning of the defense witnesses that the crossing was guarded by an oval sign bearing the warning: "Stop—Look and Listen."

Craft told the jury that it seemed to him as if the train was traveling "about 70 miles an hour" when it bore down upon him.

"When I saw the train coming, I stopped the car, pulled on the emergency brake and said to Mrs. Hopkins, 'Jump!' Then I bent over and yanked the curtain loose by her side."

Both occupants of the car climbed out, but Mrs. Hopkins was struck by the rear of the vehicle when she became confused and was dragged for some distance.

Craft, when shown photos of the Wheatstef Road crossing, insisted that a warning sign in the picture was not there when the accident took place. Repeatedly, he was shown his signed statement given to railroad investigators in an attempt to discredit his testimony.

In explanation, he said he could neither read nor write. Asked why he had said "Yes" when asked if he had read the contents of the railroad's statement, he said he had been told that "the company is in the wrong and will settle for this." Counselor Appgar seized upon the opportunity to ask Craft if the jury should judge the truthfulness of all his testimony by the truthfulness of the statement partially repudiated.

Mrs. Hopkins sustained a fracture at the juncture of the pelvic bone and the base of the spine. She was a patient for several weeks in the Harriman Hospital, Bristol, after the accident on December 23, 1929. Craft was taking Mrs. Hopkins and her sister to Mrs. Hopkins' three children at Pittman, N. J., when the crash occurred. Ernest Glickman represented the plaintiffs, with Judge Oliphant presiding over the trial.
